

ADP will assess the skill levels of your employees with the

ADP Skills Assessment Program

With ADP's Skills Assessment Program we'll evaluate every ADP system user in your dealership and assess their level of system knowledge by learning which functions they are familiar with and which ones may require further training. We'll identify the gaps in your system usage and help you boost system utilization — to help you maximize your technology investment.

We'll also provide targeted recommendations for ongoing training for your employees. This training plan will include both our current training options and if needed, customized options designed specifically to meet your dealership-specific issues. What does this mean for you? Increased levels of productivity in every department, improved employee retention, enhanced job satisfaction and increased customer satisfaction.
